Centerstone’s Research Institute established in 2008, supports the Centerstone mission of delivering care that changes people’s lives by advancing the science of behavioral health care and increasing the speed of access for individuals. This is achieved by empowering clinicians to provide the best care reinforced by the latest advancements and evidence-based practices. The Research Institute works to bridge the gap between science and service. Partnering with clinicians and other research professionals in academia and industry, the Research Institute provides research, analytics and evaluation services. Its efforts – including the development of Enlighten Analytics™ (an advanced business intelligence tool) – are funded through contracts, grants, foundations and individual donors who share the same commitment to advancing behavioral health care and recovery.

Centerstone’s Foundation is the philanthropic arm of Centerstone and supports the work of Centerstone, directly impacting clients and their families, advancing research and service innovation.
